BOULANGER TALKS. He is Confident of Success .- He Means

Peace and Not War.

Latest Telegrams to The Star.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE EVENING STAR. Lopon, June 6 .- I have just had a long conversation with Gen. Boulanger. He is very confident of his success and declared his conviction that Clemenceau would never be reelected for Paris. He expects the French elections will result in an overwhelming revisionist majority. As to whether that majority would be Boulangist he could only say "nous verrons." Nothing had been yet decided as to whether he would stand for eighty-six departments, nor would he show his hand till this chamber was dissolved, for if he did they would pass new legislation to spoil his game. He ridiculed the idea that the exhibition had injured his chances, and said that every elector in France has made up his mind, and no Eiffel tower will change his decision. "My opponents have the army, judiciary, senate chamber and executive-everything-on their side, but I have one thing, the entire nation, which will make short work of them."

Boulanger expressed to me very strongly his determination to have religious liberty in France as in America, the nuns to go back to the hospital, and religious education to be optional with the parents. "The present government desires liberty," he said, "only for themselves. I am for liberty for all and for eace. No one wants war in France. No one dare begin war in Europe. Whoever begins will be the enemy of all. I shall not begin it. With a strong stable government France can answer for peace and make an engagement with Russia for peace, not for war. Even Diroulede, the soldier poet, has abandoned his dreams of war and admits that internal reforms

The Financial Condition and the Future of the Wrecked Waterway.

TALK WITH COL. JAMES G. BERRET, ONE OF THE DIRECTORS—THE COMPANY OWES THE STATE OF MARYLAND $20,000,000 - A BAILBOAD WILL PROBABLY BE LAID ON THE CANAL BED.

There have been numerous and conflicting statements made as to what the Chesapeake and Ohio canal company is going to do with its wrecked property, and various theories as to its financial condition have been made public. As to the latter, it is probable that no one knows much more about it than Col. James G. Berret, who for twenty years has been one of the canal directors and intimately interested in its management. He talked of the canal to a STAR reporter to-day, and in response to the inquiry as to who had the greatest interest in the waterway he said that the state of Maryland was three times as large a holder as all the other interests combined, the canal company owing the state, principal and interest, not less than $20,000,000.

THE ISSUE OF BONDS IN 1844 TO COMPLETE THE

CANAL "What status have the other bondholders?" asked the reporter. "In 1844," replied Col. Berret, "the general assembly of the state of Maryland authorized the issue of $1.600,000 secure the completion of the canal up to Cumberland. The payment of these bonds was only secured by a lien upon the net revenues of the canal (to which the state waived its right), and as there have been no revenues for who hold those bonds possess nothing but a claim—an equitable claim upon the state. By the application of the money raised under this act the canal was completed in the year 1850." "THE NEXT CRISIS."

continued Col. Berret, "came in 1877, when the flood of that year almost destroyed the canal The Maryland legislature was appealed to, and and directors to negotiate a loan of $500,000 but it also waived its lien upon the corpus of then considered to be safe investments. The proceeds of these bonds were used for the restoration of the canal and since for repairs. The entire amount has been absorbed and now those bonds, with three unpaid coupons, are an outstanding lien upon the canal. By the terms of the 1878 act of the legislature," Col. Benet, "a majority of these bond-holders have now the right to pro-ceed, according to the mortgage, to foreclosure. The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company, holding $260,000 worth of these bonds, could take proceedings to foreclose the mortgage and sell out the canal; something which they, in my opinion, are not likely to do

THINKS THE CANAL WILL BECOME A RAILROAD. "What do you suppose will become of the canal."

"I think that most of the possibilities and all the probabilities are that the canal will become railroad from Cumberland to Georgetown This will be a great thing and will bring an immense amount of coal traffic to Georgetown. The business will be immense because the road would be down grade from the mines to the wharves; the railroad could bring more coa to tidewater, with less power exerted, than any other road in the country. It may be a little difficult for Georgetown people to imagine just now that anything is right. All is not wrong, however, and we shall, I am satis-fied. prosper through the means of what certainly looks a good deal like a calamity. Meanwhile steps will undoubtedly be taken to secure a proper supply of WATER FOR THE MILLS AT GEORGETOWN y repairing the towpath as far as the 'feeder. just above the Chain bridge. This supply of water will, of course, be permanent, and need not in any way be affected by the railroad connection.'

THE MINORITY BOND-HOLDERS. "What will the minority bond-holders do?" queried the reporter.

"Minorities have rights," was the reply. "If the Baltimore and Ohio company unnecessarily delays the foreclosure of the mortgage the minority will go into court and compel the foreclosure. There will be delay anyhow. Nothing can be done until the Maryland legislature meets in January. The canal company is absolutely without means or credit and it can do nothing more than possibly fix up the water supply for the Georgetown

WHO WILL BID HIGHEST? "Have you any idea as to who will buy the canal property?"

"No; nor has any one else. When the mortgage has been foreclosed the whole concern will be put up at auction and knocked down to the highest bidder." "Do you know who the highest bidder will

"Of course not. The canal franchise is a valnable one. It may be absorbed by the Baltimore and Ohio; the Pennsylvania people may imagine it would fit on to their system; the West Virginia syndicate may be desirous of purchasing; or a private individual or almost unknown corpora-tion may secure it. Whichever of the roads thinks it would add to their business will purchase it. No matter what any one says, it is Y. Cen. 1081 1081 West Union. 881 884 only mere speculation as to who will get it." PRESIDENT GAMBRILL started from Georgetown this morning for trip along the entire route of the canal. He will make a careful inspection and hopes to be able to complete his tour by the 13th instant. when the board of directors will hold a meeting to receive the reports of officers and to come to some conclusion as to future action.

A VISION OF HOPE. Their husbands do not stay around the boats they are to be found in the stores of George town or in the vicinity of the canal office, discussing the situation in their primitive way, every man honestly trying to believe (and ap-parently with success) that the old waterway will soon be repaired, and that when the birds begin their chirping next year and winter looses his grip on the throat of spring the sober mule will once more tread where others of his kind have trod before him, and that the cumbrous bluff-bowed canalboa responsive to the muscle of the mule, will again walk the chocolate-hued waters like a thing of life-a lazy, lie-down-in-the-shade-and-go-tosleep sort of a life.

HARD TIMES AHEAD FOR CANAL EMPLOYES AND BOATMEN. The canal company has in its employ about 250 employes, nearly all of them married men: they will suffer more or less. The boat-owners and the boatmen (there are 300 of the latter) have no other canals in which to continue their avocations. Hunger will pinch many a one of these and stony-hearted want will tug hard at the skirts of the boatmen's wives—mothers of a thousand little ones who have heretofore had at least enough to eat. The hands who have done nothing but load up canal-boats ever since they knew what a canal-boat looked like will be straightened for a while. From Cumber-land to Georgetown there will be a string of poverty such as the region has never known before. Many a tramp will date his experience on the road from the great Potomac freshet of 1889, and the poor-houses will claim more victims before the snows of next winter clear away than they have for many years past. A railroad may supersede the canal, but

THESE PEOPLE MUST BE ASSISTED AT ONCE. really serious, and were it not that the Johnstown horror occupies so much of the attention and the heart of the public, something would undoubtedly be done for the poor canal folks.

Views of Ex-Senator Canal folks. Views of Ex-Senator Camden.

Ex-Senator Camden, of West Virginia, is one of the directors of the West Virginia Central of the directors of the West Virginia Central railroad. Speaking with a STAR reporter to-day about the possibility of the old canal bed East Washington, who has been missing since CHICAGO, June 6 (opening. — Wheat—July, 162%; September, 76%. THE C. AND O. CANAL PROBLEM. the road to cross and recross the river when necessary, making a more direct route by cutting off the bends. He said he thought the Baltimore and Ohio could util ize the canal bed better than the West Virginia Central could, by running their line parallel with the old canal and using it for sidings.

It is said that at one time the West Virginia

Central attempted to get control of the canal property by buying up the improvement bonds, of which $500,000 were issued. After buying $100,000 worth they found that the Baltimore and Ohio had already bought $260,000 more than half, and had got ahead of them in control of the property.

THE PRESIDENT NOT LONELY. Numerous Callers at the White House To-day.

The President had another lively time with the callers to-day, The repeated announcements during the past few days that callers were few at the White House seems to have infected the community of office-seekers with the idea that this is a good time to present their petitions. This notion struck a lot of them at the same time, and it is no longer lonely at the White House. There were almost as many persons who wanted to see him on business to-day as there were yesterday.

Among the early callers who did not want office were Commissioner Douglas and Superintendent of Public Schools Powell. Mr. worth of bonds. This sum was necessary to Douglas called to pay his respects and to introduce Mr. Powell.

VIRGINIA AND MASSACHUSETTS. Representative Bowden took a small delegation to see the President to talk about some ber of years and never will be the people Virginia affairs, "but," he said, "not to ask for offices." Representative Cogswell called with two friends "to talk over the state of the republi can party in Massachusetts," which means that he had several applications about his ample clothing. As he stood on the White House steps people stared, thinking Mr. Cleveland had come back.

in 1878 it not only authorized the president | A CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER OF NAVIGATION. Senator Evarts and Representative Farquhar called together. The latter is working to get the canal, so as to give ample security for the payment of these bonds. The bonds were and has the assistance of Senator Everts and and has the assistance of Senator Evarts and most of the other New York folks.

PHILADELPHIA INTERESTS. Representative Harmer called, accompanied by his son-in-law, Mr. Howard Reeside. He wanted to thank the President for the appointment of Mar in as internal revenue collector at Philadelphia. Incidently he made some suggestions to the President as to some other ap ointments. Mr. Harmer is devoting more time to the interests of the League Island navy-yard than to the business of office-seeking. He is very well satisfied with the disposition of the Secretary of the Navy toward this yard.

CONGRESSIONAL CALLERS. Representative-elect Morey, of Ohio, was on hand again with his three friends. Senator Plumb called, accompanied by one of his young constituents who would like to serve his country in some capacity, Other Congressmen calling were Wilber, Bayne, Burton. Ex-Senator Camden, of West Virginia, who had not called on the President since his election, came to pay his respects as a friend and former associate in the Senate.

A GEORGIA CONTEST. Quite a contest is going on over the appointment of the internal revenue collector for the district of Georgia. Gen. Longstreet and his followers are urging the appointment of the son of ex-Representative Freeman, a young business man who has always been a republican. Chairman Buck, of the state committee, has for a candidate Mr. Arnold, an active politician and delegate to the Chicago convention.

Nearly a month ago Secretary Windom made out the commission for the latter candidate, but it still hangs fire at the White House. General Longstreet is very ill at his home at Gainsville. To-day he sent Col. Jack Brown, of Georgia, to represent him before the President in the interest of Mr. Freeman,

GEN. LONGSTREET'S LUCK. Gen. Longstreet has had a strange tide of misfortune and good fortune disguised in disaster. He has been dangerously ill. Some weeks or so ago the papers announced the destruction of his home, near Gainsville, by fire, involving the loss of his library, his sword, uniforms and war relies, and the manuscript of his book. His loss was a most disastrous one and a terrible blow to the old general. But the sequel to the disaster, as related to a STAR reporter to-day by Col. Brown, is astonishing. After the fire workmen were engaged in clearing away the ruins, and in a hopeless sort of way looking to see if anything could be saved. While at work with picks and shovels they struck a gold mine on the site of the destroyed homestead.

Further investigation, assays, &c., have disclosed that it is a gold mine of great richness. Gen. Longstreet and his family are raised from the depression of a loss they could ill afford to the prospect-the actual possession of wealth. There is gold all through that region of Georgia.

Prompt and Efficient Work of the Citizens' Relief Committee.

BESIDES THE LIBERAL CONTRIBUTIONS OF MONEY LARGE QUANTITIES OF CLOTHING, MATERESSES, BLANKETS, SHOES, ETC., ARE BEING SHIPPED TO THE VICTIMS OF THE PENNSYLVANIA DELUGE.

The members of the Citizens' Relief Committee have not allowed the grass to grow under their feet. Since their formal organization yesterday morning the members have been at work earnestly and actively. Everywhere they have met with the hearty co-operation of the citizens of the District. The amount of the contributions, both in money and supplies, the contributions, both in money and supplies, the contributions of the citizens of the District. The amount of the contributions, both in money and supplies, the contributions of the the contributions, both in money and supplies, has already reached large proportions, and the stream of contributions shows no signs of dithe contributions, both in money and supplies, minishing.

An instance of the generous and hearty response which the call for aid has elicited was given headquarters this morning by Mr. J. Leavitt Smith. He started out yesterday morning about 11 o'clock to collect money. He endeavored as far as possible to keep away from the usual channels where contribution have already been elicited, and accosted people shom he met on the streets and in the small stores and offices. He said this morning that he found NO ONE WHO WAS UNWILLING TO GIVE.

and when a refusal was made it was always based on the ground that they had no money to contribute. As a result of his day's work Mr. Smith turned in this morning the handsome sum of $244. There were no large single contributions, but the amounts were from twenty-five cents to a few dollars. Mr. E. Kurtz Johnson the treasurer of the ommittee, and Mr. Edward Murphy were at headquarters nearly all day receiving contributions. The individual collectors appointed yesterday began to come in with their reports and no later in the day. A number of contributions from. Mr. A BUSY TIME PACKING CLOTHING, ETC.

At Willard hall the work of packing boxes of clothing was in progress this morning as if would be the best to make of the money. nothing in this direction had been done yesterday. But Mr. L. S. Emery and his assistants yesterday had packed over forty boxes of clothing, which were shipped in the relief train that went out last evening. This record will be beaten to-day, Mr. Emery said. The piles of clothing seemed to be as large as they were yesterday. H. J. Crouch, H. B. McKean, John N. Dickson, Lafayette Sykes, Miss Scott and Mr. Bordemier, who volunteered their services in packing the boxes, were hard at work. The men had their coats off, and while some packed the boxes others nailed them up. In order to avoid confusion the contents of the boxes were labeled on the outside. As far as possible the clothing was classified. Under-clothing was placed in one box, coats and vests in another and shoes in another. A NEW FEATURE of the contributions to-day were a lot of mattrasses and blankets. Mr. I. G. Kimball, who had been canvassing among the shoe dealers, came in the hall this

THE WAGON SERVICE is very prompt and efficient and is entirely voluntary. The merchants and express companies have placed their wagons at the disposal of the committee, and when notices are received of supplies of clothing left at any point in the city a wagon is at once dispatched to bring the packages to Willard hall. By the same service the boxes are taken to the Baltimore and Ohio freight depot, where they are loaded in the cars.

there were sufferers from the flood all along the line of the canal from Georgetown to the Great Falls. He said that there were a number of cases of great destitution. The houses had been swept away with their contents, and some families were living in the woods. The lock-tenders, he said, had lost everything, and they were in straitened circumstances before, and their condition was now much worse. He said that charity began at home, and that no better use could be made of some of the money now being collected then to relieve the wants of these poor people.

Treasurer Johnston agreed with the views of Dr. Townshend and authorized him to expend a sum of money not exceeding $100 for this Dr. Townshend said that he would start up

N., called at headquarters to-day and stated that over $650 had been collected from the employes of the Navy department and the officers of the navy. A circular calling for contributions, signed by Admiral Porter, Admiral Rodgers and Capt. Sicard, has been issued. Admiral Rodgers stated that Mr. M. S. Thompson, who had been designated by the Secretary of the Navy to receive the contributions, would transmit the money to the committee to-day. A SUGGESTION.

Mr. Murphy, the secretary of the relief committee, suggests that all persons who are transmitting supplies and money to Johnstown report the amounts to the committee in order that the total will represent what the citizens have done.
